The Monmouth County Family Justice Center (FJC)

The FJC provides coordinated services for survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, child abuse, and human trafficking that are proven to save lives.

What are the signs of domestic or sexual violence?

- Financial: Controlling all income and expenses, preventing a partner from working, forcing a partner to turn over their paychecks to the abuser, restricting access to financial accounts, limiting access to cash or credit cards, or ruining a partner's credit.
- Physical: Hitting, slapping, pushing, biting, punching, kicking, restraining, choking, smothering, or strangulation. Strangulation is one of the most lethal forms of domestic violence: unconsciousness may occur within seconds and death within minutes.
- Psychological: Intimidating a person with threatening looks and behavior, stalking, monitoring by using technology, using spyware and location tracking devices, monitoring technology, posting false information about someone on social media, isolating a person from friends and family, or attacking self-esteem by blaming, manipulating, criticizing, and humiliating.
- Sexual: Manipulating or forcing a person to do something sexual or any coerced, non-consensual, and unwanted sexual behavior.
- Verbal: Cursing/swearing, yelling, name-calling, criticizing thoughts or feelings, and put-downs.

What services does the Family Justice Center offer?

The FJC provides survivors and their families with resources, crisis support, legal assistance, and counseling services all in one safe place through referrals to our partner organizations and supporting agencies for employment services, food assistance, and childcare, housing, and spiritual support.
